

HomeSchool Scribe

Brand Guidelines

VERSION 1.0 • SEPTEMBER 4, 2026 • HOMESCHOOLSCRIBE LLC

One calm, capable voice

This guide keeps HomeSchool Scribe looking and sounding like one calm, capable voice everywhere it appears, from the app and the website to social posts, emails, and print. Read it before making anything public. The Canva brand kit holds the assets; this guide explains how to use them. Product claims come from docs/marketing/product-facts.md, and voice rules from the Social Media Manifesto.

About the brand

HomeSchool Scribe is a homeschool planner and record keeper for iPhone and iPad, made by HomeSchoolScribe LLC in Villa Rica, Georgia, by a homeschool graduate who watched his mother hand-write a year of lesson plans every summer. The promise: check off the day, and the records write themselves.

Mission

Make homeschool record keeping so simple and natural that parents spend less time documenting the education they provide and more time providing it.

Vision

A homeschool where the day produces the record. Parents teach and check off the day, and the attendance, hours, grades, transcripts, and state paperwork write themselves.

The name

Always HomeSchool Scribe: capital H, capital S in the middle, capital S on Scribe. Never "Homeschool Scribe", "HomeSchoolScribe" (the LLC is the one exception), or "Home School Scribe". "Scribe" alone is fine inside a sentence, never as the account or brand name. The subscription is Scribe Plus. The home-screen label under the icon is Scribe.

Logo

The mark is a chalk tally on a ruled line, on a slate in a wooden frame. Four uprights and a diagonal: five strokes, one school week. It is never rotated, never recolored, and never drawn with a different number of strokes.

Mark, color. Paper, white, and light grounds. The default.

Mark, chalk. Chalkboard, slate blue, and photographs.

Clear space and minimum size

Clear space is one quarter of the mark's height on every side; nothing else sits inside it. The framed mark is never smaller than 24 px on screen or 8 mm in print. Below that, use the small mark without the frame (files 02 and 03 "small" in the identity folder). Every version exists as SVG and PNG in the brand kit's Logos section.

Don't. Rotate the tally. Change the number of strokes. Remove the ruled line from the mark or add it anywhere else as decoration. Recolor the chalk. Put the wordmark on one line where the two-line version fits. Add effects, gradients, or shadows.

Color

Chalkboard and chalk carry the brand. Slate blue is the accent: one button, links, and the word "Scribe" on light grounds. Wood is the frame and the highlighted phrase on dark grounds. Paper and ink are for light layouts and print.

Typography

COMING TO THE APP STORE • JANUARY 2027

Check off the day. The records write themselves.

Attendance, hours, transcripts.

Body copy in Source Sans 3. Plain, warm, parent-facing. Verbs first. No exclamation marks.

Style	Font	Use
Title, Heading, Subtitle, Subheading	Bitter Bold (Semibold for subheads)	Headlines, the wordmark, numbers that matter
Body, Caption	Source Sans 3 Regular and Semibold	Paragraphs, captions, buttons, the website
Section header, labels	IBM Plex Mono Medium, letter-spaced, uppercase	Eyebrow lines, dates, URLs, small labels
Quote	Bitter	Pulled quotes on social cards
In the app	SF Pro (SF Rounded for day counts and hours)	Never Bitter in app UI; the brand fonts live in marketing and print

All three fonts are in Canva's library (Bitter, Source Sans 3, IBM Plex Mono) and are set as the brand kit's styles. Print documents use ink on white, one slate rule under the school name, and read in grayscale.

Voice

Calm, plain, and warm, like a well-organized friend who has homeschooled for years. Serious about the records, gentle about the family. Verbs over nouns: "Log time." "Print the transcript." "Day 43 of 180."

Trait	What it means	Sounds like
Calm	We lower anxiety rather than amplify it.	"You already did the teaching. You shouldn't have to recreate the day later."
Plain	Everyday words, short sentences, one idea at a time.	"Check off what you did. Scribe keeps the record."
Warm	We speak to real parents at a kitchen table.	"Your homeschool day is already full. Recording it shouldn't become another subject."
Confident	The product's value needs no hype.	"Attendance, hours, grades, transcripts, and your state's paperwork, kept for you."

Channel	Tone	Sample

Facebook	Community, longer, conversational	"How do you handle the Sunday-night scramble? Here's what finally worked for us."
Instagram and TikTok	Quick, visual, first-person	"Watch what happens when you check off a lesson."
X	Short, opinionated, no hashtags	"The lesson isn't unfinished because you haven't entered it into a spreadsheet yet."
Pinterest	Searchable, useful, evergreen	"Georgia homeschool requirements, explained in plain language."
Email and support	Personal, precise, signed as HomeSchool Scribe	"Here's the fix, and here's why it happened."

Don't. No exclamation marks, no emoji, no hashtag clutter. Never "game changer", "supermom", "guaranteed compliance", or "you're doing it wrong". Never sign with a person's name. Every state claim ends with "Not legal advice." Never invent testimonials, statistics, or features.

Photography and imagery

- Real life first. Kitchen tables, couches, backyards, library corners, natural light. Lived-in, a little imperfect. No stock-photo smiles, no classrooms, no staged desks.
- People. Parents and children only with written permission. Never a child's full name or face without a parent's say-so. Hands, books, and tables tell the story; faces are optional.
- Product. The app appears only as real screenshots or recordings of the current build, never mocked up. Label pre-release screens.
- Illustration and AI. Stylized illustration in the palette is preferred over photorealistic fakes. AI imagery is conceptual only and never presented as a real family or the real app.

Graphics and icons

Chalkboard with faint ruled lines, chalk text, wood accents, paper for light layouts. Flat shapes, no gradients, no drop shadows on type. In the app, icons are SF Symbols. In marketing, the small chalk mark is the only icon; any other icon is a 2 px stroke in ink or chalk, no fills, palette colors only.

Does This Count? 1080 × 1350

The Sunday Night Scramble 1200 × 630

Your State, Plainly 1000 × 1500

The five franchise templates (these plus Record Keeping 101 and Scribe in 30 Seconds) live in the brand kit's Graphics section and as HTML sources in the repo.

Charts and data

Slate blue for the primary series, wood for the second, ink tertiary for the rest. Paper background, gridlines no heavier than #DDD5C6, labels in Source Sans 3, tabular figures. Bar charts for comparisons, line charts for time, never a 3D chart, never a pie chart with more than three slices.

Applications
